considerable prompting he tried and eventually was able to climb up on the side and the end. The first two times he attempted to do this it could only be accomplished by swinging the bag once or twice and finally heaving it over the side.

"He later was able to accomplish the same thing by heaving the bag backward over his hand in the position of putting a shot and heaving it over the side. It required a maximum of exertion on his part to accomplish all of these acts."

Dr. Snyder concluded that "in view of the experiments conducted it is my belief that it would have been physically possible for Roger to have removed either of the babies from their cribs. However, the exertion required to accomplish this was so strenuous and required such an extremely awkward position on his part that I believe it is most unlikely that he actually ever did remove a baby from the crib."

Dr. Snyder asserted "there is no question whatsoever in my mind the injuries were not the result of an accident but were the result of homicide.

"It is a very common occurrence that children under a year of age will roll off a table or bathinet or even fall out of windows and it is rather unusual that they suffer serious injury. It is probably due to the fact that at this age the skull has not yet become solidified so that there is considerable give and take to the structure.

"In the present instance, it appears likely that they were dashed against the floor repeatedly and that the injuries were not entirely the result of one blow."

The babies were found lying of skull fractures at 7:45 P. M. in their cribs by student nurse Marian Silbeck. She reported she had checked the room approximately 10 minutes earlier and found them sleeping.

Dr. Snyder declared that "because of the fact that Roger had made a statement to the effect that he had heard a nurse coming down the hall, and then picked both babies off the floor and placed them in their cribs, tests were conducted to establish how far down the hall a nurse could be heard approaching this room. It was found that with the type of shoes the nurses were wearing on the night of June 6 that it was impossible to hear them within five feet of the door. Consequently, it would have been impossible to have made any attempt to replace the babies in their cribs before being discovered."

"Furthermore, in view of the fact that both babies were removed from their cribs and killed by injuries which were almost identical, together with the fact that replacing the babies in their cribs would have required the utmost of exertion, leads me to believe that Roger is completely out of the picture insofar as the deaths of the babies are concerned. His manner in the nursery and his conduct throughout the experiments added to this conclusion."

Commenting on Dr. Snyder's statements, Prosecutor McLaughlin said:

"Again our investigation has been hampered by interference and meddling by private detectives seeking publicity. Dr. Snyder has greatly helped our investigation by taking six-year-old Roger Gue, Jr., completely out of the list of suspects."

"As prosecuting attorney, I have been as much interested in this little boy's innocence as his possible guilt. Our investigation continues."

Chief Switzer said, "during the time he has been in Stark County, Dr. Snyder has never conferred with me and has never made any request to review the evidence and information uncovered in the investigation by the local police department."

Dr. Snyder said he had held two conferences with Stark County Coroner E. C. Reno, in which the two went over the autopsy findings in detail.

"I was impressed with the fact that autopsies had been thorough and complete and that his report truly represented the conditions found," the criminologist said.

Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer believed Roger's admission last Monday closed the case but Prosecutor McLaughlin and Coroner Reno declared "testimony of the doctors and the coroner of the nature of the babies' injuries simply does not jibe with his story."

The boy's mother, in announcing her son had reverted to his previous story of seeing a white-coated boy enter the nursery, declared "my husband and I don't believe that Roger did it."

She told a story of purported deception and proffered gifts in connection with his admission last Monday.

Mrs. Gue said that after the boy told his "accidental story" to James Ellis, a private investigator, she obtained from Roger the admission he had been promised an airplane ride, a pen and pencil set, a watch and a birthday cake for his seventh birthday July 27.

"He was offered so many things," the mother told news-belters "that he just thought 'maybe I can change my story.'"

Roger, she said, had always insisted to his parents that he en-

Business Here Shows Increase During June

Interesting Survey Is Made by the CC Secretary

A survey of business conditions in Washington C. H. for June, made regularly by the Chamber of Commerce, showed that in most businesses and industries there was usually an increase for June, 1947 over June, 1946, but a slight decrease usually for June, 1947, under May, 1947.

Of the department stores interviewed for the survey, one reported a six percent increase in business for June, 1947, over June, 1946, and a 21.5 percent decrease for June, 1947, under May of this year. Another showed a 39.2 percent increase for June, 1947, over June, 1946, and a 2.6 percent decrease in business in June under May, 1947. Another reported an unspecified increase for this year over last year in June and a decrease in June under May.

One department store showed a 29 percent increase for this year over last and a 26 percent decrease for June under May. Another store reported a 30 percent increase in business from June 1947 over June 1946, and a 30 percent increase for June over May of this year.

All the banks interviewed reported an increase in both deposits and loans for June 1947, over June 1946 and a similar increase in both for June over May of 1947.

One industry reported an 88 percent increase in employment and production for June 1947 over June 1946, however, both remained the same for June as compared with May. Another factory reported a 10 percent increase in both employment and production for this year over June of 1946, but employment and production remained the same for June compared with May.

Employment and production in another plant remained the same for June 1947 and June 1946 while both showed a slight increase in June over May. Another plant reported employment and production the same for all periods. One industry showed an increase in both employment and production for this year and both remained the same for June and May, 1947. The last industry interviewed reported an 82 percent increase in employment and a 92 percent increase in production for June 1947 over June 1946 and a seven percent decrease for June under May while employment remained the same.

In the livestock and grain markets one stockyard reported a slight increase for June, 1947, over June, 1946, June and May of this year remained the same. Another showed a decrease for June of this year under June of last year and an increase for June over May, 1947.

One grain elevator interviewed reported a decrease in grain movements for June, 1947, under June, 1946, and movements remained the same for May and June, 1947.

Building permits showed a 12 percent decrease for June, 1947, under May, 1947.

tered the nursery only at feeding time to watch the nurses feed the babies.

Neither she nor her husband knew Ellis as an investigator, she declared. They had mutual friends and it was on that basis he was admitted to the Gue home, the woman said.

Ellis told her, she related, he wanted to question the child only to reach a solution to the case. Furthermore, she continued, her husband was given to understand, when he returned from work, that the man accompanying Ellis was a child psychologist. Actually he was Willard Schaurer, a Pittsburgh newspaperman.

The investigator has denied offering the child gifts.

In a deposition hearing here yesterday Mrs. Robert L. Linn, who visited the hospital the night of the babies' deaths, testified she saw "a man in a white coat," but can't be sure who he was.

When asked whether she had seen the man since that night she replied: "I can't be positive."

rights over international atomic control questions.)

The armed forces disclosed, in answering a reporter's questions, something of the activities of their atomic weapons at work on the "armed forces special weapons project."

The commission's announcement of more tests was made in this single sentence:

"The atomic energy commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

Commission officials refused to elaborate, but there was immediate speculation:

That the test of a third atomic bomb against warships—this one exploded two or three thousand feet under water—might be forthcoming. Such a test, scheduled originally to be held early this year at Bikini was postponed indefinitely by order of President Truman.

The postponement came as world powers were preparing last fall for a meeting of the United Nations assembly and ensuing parleys.

That atom bombardiers want to know, by experiment, what the weapon would do to a simulated modern steel-and-concrete city and whether it would produce a localized but highly destructive artificial earthquake if exploded below ground.

Grain Purchase

would remove the controls if Congress did not vote to extend them. The Senate has voted for a modified continuation, but the House has opposed.

But when reporters brought up the subject, Mr. Truman carefully pointed out that he had said he would take action. He said that is an entirely different thing.

World Trade Plans

The questioning went on: "Have you given much consideration to Secretary (of Agriculture) Anderson's proposal for a world trade organization whereby the government would do their purchasing for grain and supplies for the Marshall plan?"

Mr. Truman replied that is under consideration.

Asked if there is any administrative action he can take to permit entry into the United States persons, Mr. Truman said no of some of Europe's displaced such action is possible. If it were, he said, he would have acted long ago.

Action Congress

Over in Congress the House Appropriations Committee recommended a cut of more than 75 percent in President Truman's request for funds to pay for a check on the loyalty of federal employees.

It took the action in a $100,058-500 supplemental appropriation bill sent to the House floor for consideration before Congress adjourns Saturday. The total, which carries funds for various programs, was $120,752,900, or 54.5 percent below budget estimates.

Absent from the bill were any sizeable allotments to start the 10 year flood control program recently proposed by Mr. Truman,

City Motorcycle Develops "Short"

Traffic Officer Charles Cooper sustained painful burns on the fingers of his right hand, Wednesday night about 9 P. M., when a "short" developed in the city motorcycle while he was riding on Market Street near the Fayette Street intersection.

In jerking the wire loose, Cooper's hand was burned severely. Rewiring of the motorcycle will be necessary.

although the committee recommended $2,000,000 for flood control by the agriculture department and $6,400,000 for similar work by the interior department in the Missouri River basin.

The House quickly approved without opposition today a compromise bill freezing the social security payroll tax at one percent for another two years.

Speedy Senate action is expected to send the measure to President Truman for signature, thus forestalling a $2,000,000,000 increase in the tax Jan. 1.

The House voted shortly after House and Senate conferees broke a deadlock on conflicting versions of the bill. Without the "freeze" action, the tax would automatically go up from one percent to 2.5 percent on employees' pay and employers' payrolls.

The compromise provides that the levy—imposed to pay old age and survivors' insurance—will increase to 1.5 percent in 1950 and to two percent in 1952.

A $540,000,000 fund for civil functions of the war department took a place on the Senate's crowded pre-adjournment schedule today.

Adding more than $200,000,000 to a House-approved bill, the big money measure was okayed by the appropriations committee last night in a hurried meeting to beat the adjournment deadline Saturday.

The bill no doubt will go to a conference committee after Senate passage for action on changes from the House measure. The conferees report then must be considered by both the Senate and House.

Of the total fund, the committee recommended $452,632,525 for flood control, navigation, hydroelectric and related projects during the fiscal year which began 23 days ago. Of this sum, $326,823,825 is for flood control, $125,768,700 for navigation construction and maintenance.

Republican Congressional leaders decided today to adjourn the first session of the 80th Congress on Saturday, July 26, subject to possible recall by Republican leaders.

The decision was made at a meeting of Senate and House leaders in the office of House Speaker Martin.

Under the proposal agreed on, Congress can be recalled during the fall adjournment period by the speaker and the Republican leader of the House and the president pro-tem and majority leader of the Senate.

Without that provision in the adjournment resolution, only President Truman could recall Congress into special session once it adjourned.

Announcement of the decision was made by Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican committee.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, July 24—(AP)—All grains sank into lower territory on the Board of Trade today. Prices broke quite sharply at one time, corn falling more than 4 cents a bushel, but some recovery developed prior to the close.

A forecast for warmer weather in the mid-west, which should help corn growth, created some of the liquidation. While there were reports of corn tasselings on short stalks, grain experts said yields are not dependent on the height of the stalk when the grain tassels.

In The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, July 24—(P)—Just before quitting for 1947, Congress has voted for a national science foundation.

Now it's up to the president to sign it into law or veto it. This is the idea behind the foundation:

1. To start or help basic research in many fields, such as finding the cause and cure of cancer. (The foundation would not give treatments.)

This would be done through government loans or grants to colleges or other organizations to start or carry on research work.

2. To build up the number of scientists, especially by helping educate young people with scientific minds.

This would be done through scholarships for young men and women to continue their scientific training. They'd be chosen on ability.

This is how the foundation would work:

1. The president would appoint, with the advice of scientists, a top board of 24 outstanding people in science, medicine, engineering, and so.

2. There'd be special divisions, headed by experts, in such fields as cancer, heart disease, biology, national defense and so on.

3. There'd be a director of the foundation. Appointed by the 24-man board, he'd work full time. The board would meet at intervals.

Suppose the foundation wanted to put a lot of money and scientific effort into finding a cancer cause and cure.

It could use government money to start special research jobs in some college where scientists already were working on cancer.

But the foundation couldn't order any scientist to do any certain kind of work.

Yet, through the exchange of information on work being done, it could save scientists from duplicating one another's work.

How much would all this cost? Scientists say about $25,000,000 a year, at least in the beginning.

But Congress, although it's voted to create the foundation, hasn't voted money to start it working if the president signs it into law.

It isn't likely to do so this year. So what happens to the foundation if the president signs it into law and there's no money for it to go to work?

He can give it money, say a couple of hundred thousand dollars, out of a special fund. That would help it set up shop between now and 1948.

That would give the foundation time to work out a program and decide exactly how much money to ask for when Congress returns in 1948.

But the 24-man board, appointed by the president, must be approved by the Senate. What happens when the Senate goes home this week.

The president can appoint a temporary board to serve until 1948 when the Senate returns and can vote on the board members.

Dewey Supporters Rate Taft Second

WASHINGTON, July 24—(P)—Republicans paraded out territory today for a sectional drive aimed at increasing their Senate majority in the 1948 elections.

At the same time, reports from the entourage of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that his supporters are claiming 400 convention votes for the GOP presidential nomination and apparently conceding 350 to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio caused lifted eyebrows here.

With a majority of 547 needed to nominate, the reports from the

Congress Saying 'Au Revoir' With Oratorical Fanfare

By HAL BOYLE

WASHINGTON, —(P)—The first session of the 80th Congress is winding to a close with the usual oratorical fanfare—but it isn't much of a show from the galleries.

Congressional leaders are trying to finish their legislative chores to meet a Saturday night deadline. But if you have a mental picture of a tense room packed with eager statesmen bent on saving the west seemed to indicate that Dewey backers believe their candidate is close to a first ballot nomination.

And the point that they picked Taft as their strongest contender led to some surprise here.

Without commenting on this aspect, Taft told a reporter he doesn't have any idea how many votes could be counted as favoring him if he decides to become a candidate.

The Ohio Senator has said he will wait until after a western trip of his own in September to decide finally whether to enter the race.

"peepul," you should attend one of the final sessions now underway in the House of representatives.

It isn't like that at all. It is more like a classroom the last day of school, with everybody eager to get away on his vacation.

The business of the House proceeds in a noisy hubbub in which the only audience of the representative who has the floor often is the man himself and the presiding officer.

Indeed the thing that most puzzles gallery visitors is who the legislators are talking to, as most of their fellow congressmen pay little attention to them.

I watched the House proceedings for two hours one afternoon from a gallery seat. Some 75 congressmen were present, and I remarked this seemed a small number for a closing session.

"Why this is big crowd today," said a press veteran.

The chamber looked small and dingy. A framework of steel girders has been erected beneath the old ceiling to keep it from crumbling down on the heads of the legislators. Over the whole room hung an air of tired boredom and languor. Most congressmen already had their minds on their coming vacations. Many ambled restlessly about the chamber, visiting with one another. Others sat and read newspapers.

One old-timer climbed to his feet and took the microphone to oppose the House bill to lift all remaining restrictions on installment buying.

"When a country is as prosperous as our country is at this time—" he began, and then halted as he realized hardly anyone could hear him.

"Mr. Speaker," he said appealingly.

The Hon. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., banged heavily with his gavel and cried:

"Members will please take their seats. The House is in order."

The conversation slowed momentarily, and the congressman started over:

"When a country is as prosperous as our country is at this time—" he began, and then halted again for the next speaker.

"I'd like to have enough order for the first five rows to hear him," he said genially.

But the drone again grew louder. Congressmen began walking around restlessly. A gentleman from Mississippi plumped down. He looked over and saw he was sitting by Rep. Vito Marcantonio, the American labor party representative from New York. The gentleman from Mississippi immediately got up and moved to another seat.

I went over to the Senate chamber. Things were livelier there. But the senators talked as if they were tired, too—all but Wayne Morse of Oregon, a thorn of dissent to many fellow Republicans. Senator Taft, chairman of the Republican policy committee, has become hoarse from shepherding party measures through to the voting stage.

In the Senate as in the House there is an atmosphere of weary inertia as the 80th Congress slugs through tedious details that lie between it and adjournment. The members are already looking forward to the second and more important session in 1948—election year.

This dying session has just been a rehearsal for the main show.

Council Holds Short Session Due to The Fair

Several New Street Lights Authorized During Meeting

Council met Wednesday night but due to the absence of one member and to the Fair, the session was somewhat abbreviated.

The public hearing on the city budget failed to materialize as no one appeared in connection with the announced hearing, so the budget will be taken up for adoption at an early meeting.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the Dayton Power and Light Co. to install 100 candle power aerial type street lights at Carolyn Road and Willard streets, Carolyn Road and Lindberg Ave., and midway between Draper and Oakland Avenue, on Market Street.

An ordinance designating the First National Bank as the city depository for the remainder of this year and next, was adopted.

Resolutions were adopted, one to appropriate $60 from the general fund to the jury and witness fees fund, and another authorizing the city auditor to transfer $500 from the maintenance and repair labor fund to the oil and tire fund.

Another ordinance adopted vacates an alley on the south-westerly side of lot No. 11, of the John L. Persinger homestead addition to the city, at the request of the only property owner on the alley.

The U. S. And Europe

"A four-year or five-year plan of U. S. aid to Europe, to cost about $25,000,000-000 is in trouble before it starts," says the United States News. "President Truman's cabinet is sharply divided on the plan. Congress is inclined to be cool toward it. Europe wants and badly needs the dollars, but may not like the conditions to be attached to any new dollar grants."

The economics of the problem are bleak to an extreme. This country is the only important producer of the goods Europe must have for economic rehabilitation, no less than for immediate sustenance. Those goods must be paid for with dollars. However, foreign countries are earning only 38 percent of the dollars they are spending. The loans we have already made are running out at an alarming rate, and will be exhausted, in most cases, in less than a year.

The export-import situation tells the story in another way. Our exports abroad amount to around $20,000,000,000 a year. Our imports from abroad, on the other hand, are less than $8,000,000,000 a year. That means, from the foreign point of view, an annual deficit of nearly $12,000,000,000 a year. A number of countries, notably Britain, are attempting to step up their export production in order to make their balance of trade more favorable, and to maintain their dollar credits as long as possible. But these efforts have not borne much fruit, and no great improvement can logically be expected in the near future.

Foreign countries have investments in this country, in securities, industrial properties, etc. However, according to the U. S. News, if all long-term foreign investments of this nature were liquidated, Europe's pocketbook would be fattened by only $8,000,000,000—enough to balance the import-export scale for a mere eight months. Furthermore, these assets are unevenly distributed. The great bulk of them belong to England, and some of the neediest countries have little or nothing.

It will be a long time before anyone knows just how far the United States will go in underwriting European recovery. But it does seem certain that the policy will not be of a blank-check character—and that firm strings will be attached to future loans and gifts and subsidies. A good many commentators feel that European governments have wasted much of the money so far advanced and, in some cases, have been more interested in building political organizations than in trying to put their countries on their economic feet. Public opinion seems all in favor of stopping that.

The Marshall plan obviously is based in part on such considerations. It says, in effect, that European rehabilitation is the duty of Europe, and that aid from us can be given only if all the countries involved cooperate to the limit. It thus marks an effort to break down geographical, political, and ethnological barriers to the recovery of the continent.

It is possible to draw parallels between the present and the period following World War I, when we made large loans to Europe which were repaid only in part. But there is this enormous difference—the sums involved then were much smaller, and the United States had a relatively insignificant tax and national debt problem at home. On top of that, there was no struggle for power such as that which is being carried on between the United States and the Soviet Union today. The present European problem is complicated by the most important military and diplomatic considerations. While we are helping the rest of the world, self-preservation demands that we prepare for any conceivable contingency—including that of war.

Fighting Prejudice

A study of race prejudice is being carried on at Frisk University, a Negro college in Nashville, Tennessee. Speaking at the fourth annual race relations institute there, Dr. Marie Jahoda of the American Jewish Congress said that our biggest problem in education today is to prove to children that prejudice does something evil to the one who feels it, besides harming its object.

Dr. Jahoda stated that there are about 800 organizations in the United States committed to the fight against race prejudice, and recommended their cooperation in political matters. Other speakers before this meeting discussed the plight of smaller minority groups, such as American-born Japanese and American Indians. All of the speakers recommended practical application of the theories set forth at the meeting.

It is a healthy sign in the fight against racial discrimination that it is being brought out into the open. Free and frank discussion leading to practical cooperative action will in time do away with the evils resulting from any form of undemocratic procedure.

An observer thinks we may be now observing the birth of a new era, or the passing of an old one that formerly seemed important. But it's always like that.

People who have been abroad once know all about it, but the more they go the less they seem to understand.

If that St. Lawrence seaway and power project were a war, it would have been tackled and overcome long ago.

Probably every day marks the beginning or the end of an era, but usually we don't notice it.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—The capital's big game eaters already are licking their chops in contemplation of menus of moose being lined up for them this fall.

Members of the Anteaters Association, which gathers twice a week during the crisp season at the National Zoo Restaurant, have been promised steaks from the antlered beasts from the wilds of Canada.

The Anteaters' Association, so named by its organizer, Dr. William Mann, Zoo director, because he admires the sticky-tongued, long-snouted mammals that dotes on ants, has 833 members. They include business and professional men of the District of Columbia and some members of Congress.

Host to the association, Gordon Leech, manager of the restaurant, is busier than a bird dog placing orders for the moose, antelope, buffalo, pheasant and terrapin as well.

Right after Labor Day Leech expects to travel west to make his pheasant and buffalo contacts. You have to dicker around a bit, sort of like men in the old horse trading business, he says.

The buffalo may come from a reservation in Oklahoma—and then again they may come from Nevada. Leech isn't sure yet. It depends mostly on which reservation has a surplus of buffalo. Buffalo are all wards of the government. A ceiling of 500 is permitted for our National forests. When there's an increase in the herd, the surplus is sold.

Leech says the association is still struggling over the bear problem. Bears are scarce. There are only about 500 in the whole country that would make good eating. The Adirondack brown bear, as far as Leech is concerned, is superior to any others for eating purposes.

The best bears are the ones that come from a territory where there are plenty of berries to satiate their appetite. Experts say that a wild animal's flavor is determined by its diet. If a bear ats fish, for example, the bear is apt to taste like fish instead of bear.

The association had some good bear last season. It came from New England, was tender and juicy. About five years ago, and Leech can't forget it, they got a bear that was old and tough and pretty strong. It came from Dismal Swamps, Va.

Bears are expensive. They average around $2.75 a pound. A 150-pound bear last year had to be trimmed down to 72 pounds to get to the steak and roast part.

Leech said that of course bear hamburgers and stew could have been cooked up from the trimmings, but you just couldn't offer such pickings to an Anteater.

The 1947 bear had an inch and a half of fat all over him. The cook rendered it and used the lard to cook the bear steaks and other wild meat in.

Bear meat was the most popular item on the Anteaters' program last year, so Leech hopes to double the amount this year.

Asthma Patient's Suffering

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST of us take breathing for granted and so go about this most important business of our lives without giving it a thought. But the patient with asthma knows what it is to fight for breath. Subject to recurrent attacks of difficult breathing, he literally gasps for air, getting what little he can in wheezing, panting breaths.

The exact cause of asthma is not known, although in many cases the attacks are due to oversensitivity of the patient to some food which he eats, or to some dust or pollen which he breathes in, or some substance with which he comes in contact.

Emotional Disturbances

According to Dr. Alex Epstein, of Bern, Switzerland, emotional disturbances often contribute to the beginning of asthmatic attacks. Often the relief of such emotional disturbances may require the services of a psychiatrist, that is, a physician trained in the treatment of mental and nervous disorders.

Nose and throat disorders also are important, contributing causes of asthma.

It formerly was the custom, in the treatment of asthma, to carry out various surgical procedures such as the removal of the tonsils, but it was found that this often tended to make the attacks worse. Infections in the sinuses should be cleared up when utilized under the direction of a they are present, but operative physician.

(Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

measures should be avoided if possible.

Change of Climate

Some patients with asthma are benefited by change of climate, particularly to a warm, dry climate, but these represent only a small percentage of those who have this condition.

According to Dr. Epstein, many asthmatics have a condition of alkalosis, that is an increase of the amount of alkali in the blood and in such cases, the giving of an acid substance, such as phosphoric acid, over a long period of time, may result in definite improvement.

Lack Certain Substances

Dr. Epstein also found that certain asthmatics were suffering from a lack of calcium or lime, and vitamin C, as well as riboflavin, which is part of the vitamin B-complex. In such cases, the giving of calcium preparations and vitamins in large amounts may be of benefit.

In all cases of asthma, an effort should be made to determine if the patient is sensitive to any particular foods, dust, or pollen, and of course in such instances, the patient should be kept out of contact with these substances.

Various drugs are helpful in relieving the attacks, such as epinephrine and ephedrine, as well as new preparations known as benadryl and pyribenzamine. Of course the attacks must be cleared up when utilized under the direction of a they are present, but operative physician.

"Not Responsible For Wife's Debts"

A young man came rushing into the Clarion office the other day and wanted me to print an ad—"right quick"—saying he won't be responsible for his wife's debts from now on, as he's leaving her for good immediately.

I allowed as how the forms were all closed up, and it was too late to take his ad. He says: "All right, Monday then"—and we agreed on Monday.

Of course, the forms weren't closed. But I had kind of an inkling of what might happen. Then Sun-

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EDWARD SAID earnestly: "Henrietta, dearest, do believe this—that I do sympathize with you—in your grief, your loss."

"IS it grief?"

The question startled him. She seemed to be asking it, not of him, but of herself.

She said in a low voice:

"So quick—it can happen so quickly. . . . One moment living, breathing, and the next dead—gone—emptiness. Oh! the emptiness! And here we are, all of us, eating caramel custard and calling ourselves alive—and John, who was more alive than any of us, is dead. I say the word, you know, over and over again to myself. Dead—dead—dead—DEAD! . . . And soon it hasn't got any meaning—not any meaning at all. . . . It's just a funny little word like the breaking off of a rotten branch. Dead—dead—dead—It's like a tom-tom, isn't it, beating in the jungle? Dead—dead—dead—dead—"

"Henrietta, stop! For God's sake, stop!"

She looked at him curiously. "Didn't you know I'd feel like this? What did you think? That I'd sit gently crying into a nice little pocket handkerchief while you held my hand. That it would all be a great shock but that presently I'd begin to get over it. And that you'd comfort me very nicely. You are nice, Edward. You're very nice, but you're so—so inadequate."

He drew back. His face stiffened. He said in a dry voice: "Yes. I've always known that." She went on fiercely.

"What do you think it's been like all the evening, sitting around, with John dead and nobody caring but me and Gerald! With you glad, and David embarrassed and Midge distressed and Lucy delicately enjoying the News of the World come from print into real life! Can't you see how like a fantastic nightmare it all is?"

Edward said nothing. He stepped back a pace, into shadows.

Looking at him, Henrietta said: "Tonight—nothing seems real to me, nobody is real—but John!"

Edward said quietly, "I know. . . . I am not very real. . . ."

"What a brute I am, Edward! But I can't help it. I can't help resenting that John who was so alive is dead."

"And that I who am half dead am alive. . . ."

"I didn't mean that, Edward."

"I think you did, Henrietta. . . . I think, perhaps, you are right."

But she was saying thoughtfully, harking back to an earlier thought:

"But it is not grief. Perhaps I cannot feel grief. . . . Perhaps I never shall. . . . And yet—I would like to grieve for John. . . ."

Her words seemed to him fantastic. Yet he was even more startled when she added, suddenly, in an almost businesslike voice:

"I must go to the swimming pool."

She glided away through the trees.

Walking stiffly, Edward went through the open window.

Midge looked up as Edward came through the window with unseeing eyes. His face was gray and pinched. It looked bloodless.

He did not hear the little gasp that Midge stifled immediately.

Almost mechanically he walked to a chair and sat down. Aware of something expected of him, he said:

"It's cold."

"Are you very cold, Edward? Shall we—shall I—light a fire?"

Midge took a box of matches from the mantelpiece. She knelt down and set a match to the fire. She looked cautiously sideways at Edward. He was quite oblivious, she thought, of everything.

She said, "A fire is nice. It warms one. . . ."

How cold he looks, she thought. But it can't be as cold as that outside. It's Henrietta! What has she said to him?

"Bring your chair nearer, Edward. Come close to the fire."

"What?"

"Your chair. To the fire."

She was talking to him now, loudly and slowly, as though to a deaf person.

And suddenly, so suddenly that her heart turned over with relief, Edward, the real Edward, was there again. Smiling at her gently.

"Have you been talking to me, Midge? I'm sorry. I'm afraid I am—thinking of something."

"Oh, it was nothing. Just the fire."

The sticks were crackling and some fir cones were burning with a bright, clear flame. Edward looked at them. He said:

"It's a nice fire."

He stretched out his long thin hands to the blaze, aware of relief from tension.

Midge said, "We always had fir cones at Ainswick."

"I still do. A basket of them is brought in every day and put by the grate."

Edward at Ainswick. . . . Midge half closed her eyes, picturing it. He would sit, she thought, in the library, on the west side of the house. There was a magnolia that almost covered one window and which filled the room with a golden green light in the afternoons.

Through the other window you looked out on the lawn and a tall Wellingtonia stood up like a sentinel. And to the right was the big copper beech.

Oh, Ainswick—Ainswick.

She could smell the soft air that drifted in from the magnolia which would still, in September, have some great, white, sweet-smelling, waxy flowers on it. . . . And the pine cones on the fire. . . . and a faintly musty smell from the kind of book that Edward was sure to be reading. . . . He would be sitting in the saddle-back chair, and occasionally, perhaps, his eyes would go from the book to the fire, and he would think, just a minute, of Henrietta.

Midge stirred and asked: "Where is Henrietta?"

"She went to the swimming pool."

Midge stared. "Why?"

Her voice, abrupt and deep, roused Edward a little.

"My dear Midge, surely you knew—oh, well—guessed. She knew Christow pretty well. . . ."

"Oh, of course, one knew that! But I don't see why she should go mooning off to where he was shot. That's not at all like Henrietta. She's never melodramatic."

"Do any of us know what anyone else is like? Henrietta, for instance."

Midge frowned. She said: "After all, Edward, you and I know Henrietta all our lives."

"She has changed."

"Not really. I don't think one changes."

"Henrietta has changed."

Midge looked at him curiously. "More than we have, you and I?"

"O. I have stood still. I know that well enough. And you—"

His eyes, suddenly focussing, looked at her where she knelt by the fender. It was as though he was looking at her from a long way off, taking in the square chin, the dark eyes, the resolute mouth.

He said:

"I wish I saw you more often, Midge, my dear."

She smiled up at him. She said: "I know. It isn't easy, these days, to keep touch."

There was a sound outside and Edward got up.

"Lucy was right," he said. "It has been a tiring day—one's first introduction to murder! I shall go to bed. Good night."

He had left the room when Henrietta came through the window. Midge turned on her.

"What have you done to Edward?"

"Edward?" Henrietta was vague. Her forehead was puckered. She seemed to be thinking of something far away.

"Yes, Edward. He came in looking dreadful—so cold and gray."

"If you care about Edward so much, Midge, why don't you do something about him?"

"Do something? What do you mean?"

"I don't know. Stand on a chair and shout! Draw attention to yourself. Don't you know that's the only hope with a man like Edward?"

"Edward will never care about anyone but you, Henrietta. He never has."

"Then it's very unintelligent of him." She threw a quick glance at Midge's white face. "I've hurt you, I'm sorry. But I hate Edward tonight."

"Hate Edward? You can't. . . ."

"Oh, yes, I can! You don't know."

"What?"

Henrietta said slowly: "He reminds me of such a lot of things I would like to forget."

"What things?"

"Well, Ainswick, for instance."

"Ainswick? You want to forget Ainswick?"

Midge's tone was incredulous. "Yes, yes, yes! I was happy there. I can't stand, just now, being reminded of happiness. . . . Don't you understand? A time when one didn't know what was coming. When one said confidently, everything is going to be lovely! Some people are wise—they never expect to be happy. I did."

She said abruptly: "I shall never go back to Ainswick."

Midge said slowly: "I wonder."

4-H Club Girls Get Awards on Fair Exhibits

Displays Laid Out
Under Grandstand
Attracts Interest

Mrs. Louise Converse of Plain City has completed the task of making awards in the large number of exhibits of the Girl's 4-H Clothing and Nutrition Clubs of the county.

These exhibits are under the eastern half of the grandstand, and show remarkable talent on the part of the members of the various clubs.

The display is one of the outstanding exhibits at the affair, and shows the achievements of the girls enrolled in the clubs, who have spent many weeks engaged in the various projects.

Awards were made as follows:

Co-operation On Fire Safety Pledged Here

Efforts to Reduce Tremendous Losses
Being Made

The fire department here will offer any assistance asked by the Governor's Committee for Fire Safety when a state-wide fire safety conference is held this fall, George Hall, fire chief, said following word that this committee had organized recently in Cincinnati.

The committee was formed as a result of the request made by President Truman last spring when he called attention to the growing fire losses in the United States. The total fire loss in 1946 was $561,487,000, almost 25 percent higher than 1945.

Twenty representatives of business, industry, education and fire prevention organized the committee and Governor Thomas Herbert was appointed honorary chairman with Joseph B. Hall, president of the Kroger Company, as general chairman for the state of Ohio.

At the state-wide conference, the committee will discuss its plans to study and make recommendations at city and county levels on building construction, operation and protection, laws and enforcement, fire prevention education, fire fighting services, fire safety research and organization for public support of a continuous fire safety program.

Committees, sub-committees, officers and directors will also be appointed at this conference.

Natural Gas

fords rivers to bake your biscuits!

When you put a pan of biscuits in your Natural Gas range oven and set the heat regulator for exactly the degree of heat you want... do you ever stop to think of the wonders of Natural Gas service? From distant gas fields, Natural Gas is brought hundreds of miles, under rivers, over mountains, in huge pipe lines under constant inspection. Highly trained engineers in the more than 100 compressor stations and hundreds of skilled workers responsible for the huge network of pipes beneath the streets of your city make the "Magic Flame" available in your kitchen.

All the cleanliness, the dependable cooking performance, the fingertip flexibility of Natural Gas cookery are yours at rates so low that fuel costs are a negligible factor in meal planning.

U.S. Sergeant Shot Outside Manila

MANILA, July 24—(P)—U. S. Army sergeant was machinegunned to death and a companion was wounded today by unidentified assailants in the Clark Field area only a few hours after the lifting of a curfew imposed for a similar assault in the same region less than a month ago.

An Army announcement said the shooting occurred on highway No. 3 near San Fernando at almost the exact spot where Capt. and Mrs. Irvin Plough were wounded and their baby killed June 28.

The two soldiers, members of an army telephone repair outfit with the fourth signal service group were answering a call for assistance from another crew, whose trucks had broken down.

Wiring Code Inspection to Be Made Here

All New Buildings To Be Rated By DP&L Company

All electrical wiring in new buildings and dwellings and remodeled structures will be subject to inspection by a representative of the Dayton Power and Light Co. to see that this wiring conforms to the National Electric Code. This inspection will be effective August 1, it was announced today following a meeting in the recreation room at the DP&L.

Alvis Briggs has been appointed electric service inspector for the DP&L here. Briggs has been with the company for 20 years and is experienced in electrical construction and house wiring. The company said, in announcing his appointment, before an electric meter is set at a new installation, Briggs will inspect the wiring for conformation to the code.

Approximately 40 electricians and contractors from Washington C. H. and adjoining communities were present. This group heard B. W. Markwood, chief electrical inspector from the Ohio Inspection Bureau of Columbus, outline the new 1947 National Electrical Code.

Herbert Sneed, Robert L. Pierce and Fred Jones of the Adequate Wiring Bureau in Dayton, discussed adequate house wiring methods and the minimum requirements of the code by which the inspections will be rated.

It was pointed out that all wiring in new or remodeled buildings will have to meet the minimum requirements of the code before service will be connected by the DP&L. This inspection will insure protection to persons building new homes or remodeling old ones in which the wiring will be damaged, it was stated.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Long Shot Just Misses Track Record; Spill Mars Opening Day of Fair Races

Lee Dewey, a $35.60 to $2 long shot, came within a fraction of a second of equaling the track record of 2:06 1/4 for trotters when he nosed out Volarian, the first heat winner, in 2:06 2-5 while a crowd that filled the old grandstand cheered wildly as they pounced down the stretch neck and neck to a photo finish. Trailing by two lengths as they rounded the turn for home, Ray Riegler pulled him out for the drive. He overhauled Volarian, driven by Gabe Cartnal, about 10 yards from the wire and stuck his nose in front as they went under it.

Lee Dewey had finished second to Volarian in the first heat of the 2:14 trot, a $1,000 stake, but was overlooked by the bettors in the second. Volarian, who paid $10.80 for $2 in the first heat, was the favorite in the second. Lee Dewey paid $17 for $2 to place in the opening dash of the two heat race.

Reds Beaten Again By Dodgers -- Loss Is Fifth in Row

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

Ralph Kiner, who represents one of the few bright spots in the Pittsburgh Pirates' dismal season, today had realized one of his three main ambitions and stood a fairly good chance to achieve the other two.

The hard hitting buccoo outfielder, who during spring training announced he was out to lead the national league in home runs and runs batted in as well as set a new Pirate homer mark, walloped his 24th and 25th four baggers of the campaign last night to break the Pittsburgh record held jointly by himself and Johnny Rizzo. Rizzo had smashed 23 round trippers in 1938 and Ralph duplicated the feat last year.

Kiner now is only three homers behind Johnny Mize of the New York Giants who leads both majors with 28. He also is in the running for RBI honors, having sent 67 runners over the plate to rank fourth behind New York's trio of Willard Marshall (75), Mize (73) and Walker Cooper (71).

The 24-year-old sophomore slugger from Santa Rita, New Mexico, batted in four runs last night to lead the Pirates to a 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Signs of an impending stretch fight for the National League flag between Brooklyn and St. Louis became more evident when both won their games, the Dodgers defeating the Reds at Cincinnati 5-2 and the Cards nipping the New York Giants in St. Louis 6-5.

Tied at 2-2 at the end of seven innings, the Brooks got out front when Eddie Miksis singled in Carl Furillo in the eighth inning. They added two more in the ninth.

The "never say die" St. Louis Cardinals rallied for four runs in the bottom half of the ninth to come from behind and top the Giants.

The runner-up Boston Braves remained five games behind the Dodgers by thrashing the Cubs in Chicago 12-4.

Lanky Ellis Kinder allowed only six hits and Willard Brown cracked four singles in five times at bat to lead the last place St. Louis Browns to an 8-2 victory over the American League leading New York Yankees at the Yankee Stadium. Brown drove in three runs.

The Detroit Tigers were shut out by the Washington Senators 5-0. Rae Scarborough scattered six hits for his third win.

The Boston Red Sox went 14 innings before finally besting the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in a night game at Fenway Park. A perfectly executed squeeze bunt by Don Gutteridge with the bases loaded and one out sent in the winning run.

A three-run homer by Eddie Joost in the sixth inning provided the Philadelphia Athletics with a 6-1 victory over the CLEVELAND Indians in a half game at Philadelphia.

FAMILY TREE

Claude "Big Monk" Simons put Tulane University on the athletic map as trainer and coach of nearly every sport for a 24-year period. His son, "Little Monk," a four-letter winner and stay half-back in 1934, went on to become Tulane's athletic director. And now it's eight-year-old "Chipmonk" Simons who is winning athletic honors. The third of the "Monk" series won a trophy as "best all around athlete and sportsman" in a test at his New Orleans school. Would you say Chipmonk is aping the older Monks?

Mortons Swamped By DP&L, 19-9

Seven runs in the last inning put the game on ice for the DP&L boys when they beat Mortons, 19 to 9, in a free hitting and loose fielding City League softball game at Wilson Field Wednesday night.

Until that fat finale, the Mortons had a chance in the wild fray although they were trailing 12 to 9. But after seven runners came romping home, the gap was too wide to close—and they figuratively tossed in the sponge.

Hatfield and Reno hit triples for the DP&L and M. Thornton walloped a home run.

Thirteen errors chalked up by the Mortons were a help to the DP&L crew who used them to make 19 runs with 17 hits.

The High School League game between the Freshmen and Juniors, which started at 6:30 P. M., ended in an 8-8 deadlock. Play was halted in spite of the tie in order to clear the field for the City League tilt.

and for spectator interest.

A five-horse spill at the head of the stretch marred the second race, the $1000 stake for 2:28 pacers which was won by Charming Chief at $7.80 for $2 odds.

Only three horses, all that were not involved in the tangle, finished.

None of the drivers or horses was seriously injured, although the track was not cleared until some time after the race was over. Slim Shilling, apparently knocked out temporarily, was the last to leave. He walked off the track, disdaining the services of the ambulance which had dashed down the track for emergency use.

All came back for the second heat which was won by Pluto Law at odds of $17 to $2. Charming Chief, the first heat winner, was out of the money. Some difficulty was experienced in getting the field away for the second heat because of the nervousness of the horses which had not settled down completely.

$48.80 Long Shot Wins

The longest shot of the afternoon was Judge Martin at $48.80 for $2 when he won the first heat of the first division of the $1,000 stake for two-year-old pacers. He came through on the inside to nip Loosong right at the wire. His victory was no fluke, for he came back to win the second heat at $8.40 for $2. He came from behind again, but won going away without being pressed. He paced the first mile in 2:12 3-5 and the second in 2:16.

Girl's Team Booked For One Game of Friday Twin Bill

A team of girls who shut out 6 to 0, a team of men in a Sabina softball game not so long ago, and a men's outfit from Columbus with a record of 15 wins and three defeats have been booked for Friday night's customary weekly double feature at Wilson Field, Fred Pierson, the city recreation director, has announced.

The National Cash Register girls are to come here from Dayton to meet the Washington C. H. girls who defeated a DP&L girls' team in their only game of the season in the evening's curtain raiser. The NCR girls have won ten and lost two games this year. While most of their opponents have been girls, they have met and turned back several teams of men.

In the main go, the Hoguey Legion post's outfit, which was nosed out of the first round championship of the City League, is to take on the City Merchants from Columbus. The Columbus team beat the Greenfield League leaders 7 to 3, a short time ago and is rated as one of the top teams of the capital city.

No admission is to be charged here, but a collection is to be taken at the gate to meet incidental expenses and help build up the recreation fund.

Oliver Now Leads Vardon Cup Race

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, July 24—(AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the year's No. 1 money winner, lost first place in the Vardon Cup ratings by passing up the Canadian Open to play a few exhibitions—but he has a chance to scoot back into the lead in the $10,000 Columbus open this weekend.

As of now, Ed (Porky) Oliver is the No. 1 man in the low-strokes-per-round competition in which the guy with the best average gets the Vardon trophy at the end of the year.

Porky, for 48 rounds of tournament play, has used up 3356 strokes for an average just a mite under 69.92. Hogan, for 52 rounds, has fired 3635 strokes for a 69.93, a mark just one-hundredth of a point back of Oliver.

Until the Canadian Open Oliver had a 70.13 rating for second place, but he skipped around the little fellow with his 270 for runner-up laurels in the Dominion event.

Hogan was on hand, but Oliver was missing, as the field of some 108 practice over Country Club yesterday, but the Porky one was among the entrants and expected to be on hand for the 72-hole medal chase.

Bobby Locke, the South African winner of six of 11 tournaments this summer, and favorite in the capital city open, toured the course in 71 and slacks—not his usual plus fours—yesterday. He was a stroke off the pace set by national champion Lew Worsham and amateur Frankie Stranahan of Toledo, but matched former open champion Lawson Little and Billy Burke, both of Cleveland.

A pro-amateur event was on today's tournament slate, with the money shooters doing the heavy work and country club members just going along for the ride.

Ernie Smith, won the first heat of the 2:18 trot and was flirting with the track trotting mark when he turned the mile in 2:08 4-5 but she was out of the money when Snappy Kate, owned by Frank Junk and Son and driven by Frank Lanum, nosed out March First in the second heat in 2:07 3-5. Snappy Kate, third in the first heat, was the favorite in the second, paying only $2.60 to win.

Blankets were presented to the winners by the Record-Herald (two-year-old pacer); Craig's Store (2:28 pacer); G. D. Baker (2:18 trot) and W. E. Passmore (2:14 trot).

The trophy in the 2:14 trot went to Lee Dewey because he had the faster time for the mile after he and Volarian had shared the honors of the two heats when each won one heat and was second in the other.

Wheat Harvest Here Is Moving Into High Gear

Rains Delayed Start And Cut Quality of Much of Grain

Harvesting of the Fayette County wheat crop has been pushed three weeks behind schedule by the excessive rainfall of June and July. The past three weeks have been highly disappointing weeks for the county's farmers who have been forced to watch their wheat ripen and spoil on the ground, unharvested. Until recently the ground has been too soft and the wheat wet for the use of combines on days otherwise suitable for harvesting.

With the arrival of sunny weather the ground has been dried out sufficiently to permit harvesting of the wheat crop, but the simultaneous opening of the Fayette County Fair has created a tempting distraction for the county's farmers who have been torn between visiting the fair and harvesting their wheat.

Approximately 25,000 bushels of wheat were received by the three Washington C. H. elevators of July 22. This was said to be a normal day's intake and the first good day's accumulation of grain for the harvest season. It is expected that the flow of grain here will continue at this level until the harvesting is completed in about two weeks.

In general, the quality of the grain is poor and below the average of last year. The wheat is testing No. 3 and 4. A probe test made of a railroad car load of Fayette County wheat a few days ago showed that the grain had suffered about 14 percent damage from scab, "tombstone grains," blight and rain. The moisture content of the grain has been running as high as 17 percent; 14 percent being considered normal.

WHEAT IN DANGER
COLUMBUS, July 24—(AP)—Unless rapid progress is made during the next seven days in combining wheat Ohio faces a "considerable loss" of the 1947 crop, the U. S. Weather Bureau and the Agriculture predicted today.

During the week ended yesterday, the report said, favorable conditions prevailed only for the growth of vegetables, sugar beets, soybeans and truck crops.

Field work in some central counties was at a standstill, although all wheat was reported ripe and ready for combining northward about as far as Lima and Canton. "Some wheat is already in shock around Toledo, Tiffin and Warren," the report said, "but oats are still largely green in northern Ohio."

Soft, wet ground had made it impossible to cultivate or combine the survey continued, adding that the July temperature of an average 71 degrees was 14.4 degrees cooler than the 88-year average for the month.

CORN OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS
WASHINGTON, July 24—(AP)—Officials looked today to a government report boosting corn crop prospects 158,000,000 bushels for help in halting the rising trend in many farm and food prices.

President Truman, in his mid-year economic report Monday, said fears of a short corn crop appeared to be among the factors standing in the way of needed price adjustments.

In a special crop survey made public yesterday, the agriculture department forecast the weather-plagued crop at 2,770,000,000 bushels, based on conditions prevailing July 15.

The departments July 1 forecast was for 2,612,000,000 bushels, which is about 57,000,000 below average. Last year's record crop totaled 3,237,000,000.

The new forecast is within about 80,000,000 bushels of estimated needs for maintaining livestock, dairy and poultry production at present high levels. Continued good weather could narrow the gap still more.

When abnormally cool weather, excessive rains and floods hampered planting and cultivation of the crop this spring, corn prices started a climb that has carried to near-record levels. This reflected fears of a shortage of feed to maintain livestock production at current levels.

The corn price rise not only carried other grains along with it but tended to push up meat prices as well. It is generally acknowledged that a short corn crop would result in less meat production next year at higher prices.

Supermarket Nearly Ready

Opening Sometime in August Planned By Owners

The Helfrich Brothers' new supermarket at 806 Delaware Street is getting the finishing touches inside today, said Mike Helfrich, as he announced that the store was due to open sometime next month.

The line equipment and the large coolers are being installed this week, but Helfrich said the work was going rather slowly and it will probably be sometime in August before the store opens its doors. The store area will be 120 by 45 feet, Helfrich said.

The store, for which no name has been chosen, is owned by Bob, Mike and Neil Helfrich. Tom Brown, former district supervisor of the War Price and Rationing board, will manage the grocery department and the Helfrichs will personally operate the meat department. Brown was also a former supervisor for the A&P and worked sometime for the Armour Co.

At present, the Helfrichs operate a meat market at 632 Rose Avenue. When the Helfrichs vacate this building, Webber French, the owner, plans to open a display room for farm equipment, Helfrich said.

A feature of the market will be ample parking space for customers. The building is located on the east side of Delaware Street, nearly opposite the Fayette Farm Bureau property.

Receiver Is Named For Tool Concern

Judge George F. McDowell in the Highland County Common Pleas Court, has appointed Maple D. Isaman receiver for the Greenfield Tool and Mfg. Co., Inc., and Howard C. Newman, head of the concern, and formerly with the API in Washington C. H.

The receiver was named as result of a suit filed by James H. Everhart, asking judgment for $2,088.63 against the firm and Newman.

Everhart claimed that he entered into a contract with Newman who represented himself as president of the firm; that under the contract, he contributed $500 in money and services valued at $2,588.63; that he was to receive stock in the company to the extent of his assistance, and that he, Newman, George T. Darnell and Wilson E. Hyer were to carry on

Former Patrol Officer Found Guilty By Jury

Verdict Is Returned After 30 Minutes Deliberations

After deliberating some 30 minutes, the jury sitting in the case of Herbert O. McAdams, Chillicothe, former state patrol officer, returning a verdict finding McAdams guilty while intoxicated.

The case was tried before Judge R. H. Sites, of the city police court, and a jury, which had been impaneled from the common pleas court jury wheel.

The case was started at 9 A. M. Wednesday, and went to the jury about the noon hour, after several witnesses had been introduced by both sides, and the defendant himself had taken the stand in his own behalf.

A stenographer from out of the city recorded the proceedings.

Testifying against the plaintiff were Policemen James Finney, Charles Cooper and Walter Marshall. Also John McKnight, former deputy sheriff of Montgomery County.

The officers testified that the odor of liquor was strong about McAdams, and that his actions were those of a man under the influence of liquor. Two of the officers testified that they were forced to chase McAdams who traveled up to 80 miles an hour, nearly to the Ross County line, on the Chillicothe Highway, before overtaking him and that he resisted arrest, making it necessary to handcuff him.

McAdams testified that he had not taken a drink of any kind shortly prior to his arrest, and that he was not under the influence of liquor when arrested.

Other witnesses for the defense made supporting statements in this connection.

Short arguments were made by Winston W. Hill, city attorney, and W. A. Lovell, defense counsel.

Sentence was not passed pending motion for a new trial of the case. As result of the jury hearing, costs in the case have been greatly increased.

The jury was composed of Lucile Steen, Marion Rice, Grace Patch, Maude Howland, Martha Slagle, Walter Weaver, Mark King, Ruth Sheley, Robert Cockerill, Lulu Young, O. E. Spengler and Mabel Cox.

the business, assume the losses, and divide the profits.

Everhart further claimed that no stock was ever issued, and that the business was not a corporation but a partnership.

The plaintiff also said in his petition that the business had accumulated machinery worth $9000 and had $1700 on deposit in the Peoples National Bank.

He asked that a receiver be appointed, an accounting made, and judgment rendered him in the amount of $3,088.67.

Wednesday morning the work of judging livestock was continuing, with a sizeable crowd around the show ring, watching the placing of ribbons.

Thursday night is a free grandstand and the 4-H Club members will strut their stuff, starting with a style show by girls who made their own dresses and suits, and ending with sale of 4-H livestock.

The event promises to be one of the most interesting of the series. A good fireworks display at the conclusion of the sale of 4-H livestock, will be well worth seeing, officials state.

Auto Crashes Into Bridge Killing Man

William R. Redkey, of Sabina Is Traffic Accident Victim

William R. Redkey, 47, Sabina, and well known in this city and county, was instantly killed about 9:15 p. m. Wednesday night, when his auto left the road, crashed into a 40-foot steel bridge over Anderson's Fork a mile north of Melvin, carrying the bridge into the stream.

Redkey apparently had gone to sleep or suffered a heart attack, for the wheel marks showed his car ran with two wheels in the grass at the roadside 200 feet before colliding with the batter post of the bridge.

The steel of the bridge ran into the car and crushed Redkey to death almost instantly.

Redkey was employed as a tool polisher for the McPherson and Huff Tool Co., of Sabina. He was a member of the Eagles Lodge in Washington C. H.

The accident occurred on what is known as the Stone Road, and the tragedy was quickly discovered and officials summoned to the scene.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs.

Daisy Redkey; a daughter, Mrs. Sherman Snow, Sabina; a son, Paul Edward Redkey, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Redkey, Sabina; three step-children, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Brewer, of Wilmington.

Services will be held at the Littleton Funeral Home, Saturday at 2 p. m. and burial made at Sabina. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

John L. Lewis Spent Night Here - Belief

When a very familiar-looking person walked into the Sewell Tourist Court on Dayton Avenue Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Charles Sewell, manager of the court, said she thought hard for a few minutes and then felt certain that she was looking at John L. Lewis, powerful labor leader and head man of the miners' union.

Mrs. Sewell said the man she identified as Lewis, came into the tourist court at about 6:30 P. M. Wednesday and registered as J. L. Lewis of Springfield. He did not leave the grounds Wednesday evening, but checked out at 7 A. M. Thursday and headed in the direction of Dayton. He was driving a big car—Mrs. Sewell could not identify the make—and was alone.

By the time she recognized him, he had left the registration room, said Mrs. Sewell, and she was not able to talk to him. She said few others seemed to recognize him. Mrs. Sewell said this was very unusual since he is easily recognizable.

One or two persons who attempted to engage Lewis in conversation, met with no encouragement.

Vesper Services At County Home

This impressive out-door service will feature vocal and instrumental music. Soloists will be Mrs. Al Conaway, Miss Rebecca Jane Armbrust, Mrs. Norman Armbrust, Mrs. Clifford Foster and Lewis Merriman. Jane Grim will sing "Jesus Loves Me" in connection with the children's portion of the program. Pianists will be Mrs. John Glenn and Mrs. Russell Miller.

The church choir will sing "O Mighty God," "Sun of My Soul" and "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee."

A poem "Dusk" written by Mrs. Ethel Lewis, a member of McNair will be read at the beginning of the service.

The public is invited to attend
